The estimated population is 5.3 millions, of whom the overwhelming majority are Africans; there are 50,000 Asians and nearly 7,000 Europeans.

The world's second biggest lake, Lake Victoria, is partly in Uganda, and it is from Lake Victoria that the Nile begins its 3,850 mile course to the Mediterranean. At the Owen Falls, Jinja, the £16 million hydro-electric scheme, opened by Her Majesty the Queen in April 1954, harnesses the Nile at its source and will turn Lake Victoria into the biggest reservoir on earth.

The lifeblood of Uganda is cotton which is grown by African peasant farmers. A textile mill has been constructed at Jinja. Uganda is the largest producer of cotton and coffee in the British Commonwealth. Exports of these two crops in 1955 were valued at £33 million.

Because of its altitude, Uganda enjoys an equable climate, with little variation in temperature; the weather resembles that of an English summer, rainfall averaging about 50 inches a year.

Uganda is a country of cyclists; there are estimated to be at least 300,000 machines on the road. There are also another 17,000 motor vehicles.

For the first time, Uganda is to be represented at the Olympic Games this year. A team of athletes and a boxer are to compete in Melbourne.

The national sport?—Football played in barefeet. Even in the most isolated parts of the country pitches are to be found with goalposts made out of bamboo.

Uganda Football Association

The Uganda Football Association came into being thirty-two years ago, when a few interested sportsmen and keen footballers met to discuss the propagation of the game in Uganda. During the first two years teams were formed, mainly from the Missions. In 1926 a League was inaugurated and this expanded the following of the game and for the first time Government Departments and Commercial Houses affiliated to the U.F.A.

Special Welcome

We are pleased to announce that we shall be honoured in having with us this evening Sir Stanley Rous, C.B.E., J.P., Secretary of the Football Association, and the teams will be presented to him before the commencement of the game.

Many thanks to Furniture Industries Limited Band who will so kindly entertain us this evening.
